THE PHOENIX BANQUET

An Evening of Mirth, Music and Good Fellowship.

EVERY MEMBER MADE A SPEECH
The Handsome Rooms of the Organization the Scene of a Delightful Gathering—A Copious Flow of Wit and Sound Sense. The Officers Elected.

The handsome quarters of the Phoenix club, in the Thompson building, were last evening the scene of a delightful entertainment, the event being the annual meeting of the organization.

According to a time honored custom the members chatted upon almost every topic under the sun until 9 o'clock came, when President J. T. Cartwright announced that he was compelled to call the meeting to order. Routine business, including the adoption of Treasurer Peterson's report and the voluminous document put forth by Secretary Manor, was soon disposed of, and the election of officers announced. C. E. Macrum was made president, Jack Harris, vice-president, J. Manor, secretary, Chal Peterson, treasurer, and E. M. Crosser, Evas Sebring, W. J. Murphy, F. E. Grosshans, Thos. W. Morris, Thos. F. Arbuckle and J. F. Manor were elected trustees. The new officers were duly installed, and the club enjoyed a recess and banquet at one and the same time. A table was daintily set in the reception room, and when President Macrum pitched the tune of "Auld Lang Syne" he looked upon a party of as merry young men as could be found in the country last evening. The favors were carnations, and the banquet a feast. While one was being proudly worn and the other carefully stowed away, the laugh, joke and story were passed around, and every member present seemed willing to swear that he had been at the table but a few minutes when the president gave the sign to retire. When once settled cigars were passed around and the toastmaster took up his duties. Chal Peterson responded to the "Old Phoenix," relating incidents of the days when the club was nothing more than a group of youngsters, and W. J. Murphy spoke entertainingly of the "New Phoenix." George Davidson told of the "Sounds of West Virginia," and Ted Brooks recalled the "Music of the Old Phoenix" in a pleasing manner, and Jack Harris spoke of the "Girl I Left Behind," incidentally remarking that his duties in the Hod-carriers union kept him so employed that he had nearly forgotten the lady. T. H. Arbuckle touched the subject of insurance for a moment, and declaimed eloquently upon the glories of the club, and was followed by F. Isaac Simmers, who gave the new members some advice regarding politics. Harold Williamson was requested to sing his favorite selection, but gratefully declined, while George Owen took up the time Mr. Williamson did not use in talking of "Impressions of a Phoenix Meeting." Charley Kelly found much that was interesting to say of the "Relations of the Phoenix Club to East Liverpool," but F. E. Grosshans left his subject and practically sang the praises of the organization. Joe Herbert explained "Why I Kick," and E. M. Crosser gave some excellent advice on the question of finances. Joe Manor told of how he surmounted some difficulties, and was followed by Joe Cartwright with his impressions of D. Simmers' hair. That gentleman explained the reason of his love for the ladies, while Charley Hall told all he knew of his Wellsville girl. Charley Ashbaugh explained something connected with a flute, and George Thompson left the beaten path to touchingly recall the memory of the four Phoenix boys who have passed into the great beyond. "Our Duty" was splendidly handled by Irwin Dunlap, and Enoch Elden remembered some of the "Barefoot Days in Tuscarawas County." Evas Sebring closed with "The Ladies" one of the most delightful evenings in the history of the club.

The Phoenix club have recently secured another room in the Thompson building, various partitions have been removed, and the whole given a complete overhauling, with the result that the club have the most cosy and convenient rooms in this part of the world. The members are loyal to each other and their organization, and last night proved that the organization, old as it is, is in better condition than ever.

SUBJECTS IN THE COURSE.

The Young Men's Christian Association Will Have a Good One.

The Young Men's Christian Association committee having in charge the lecture course have completed their arrangements, and promise the best series of entertainments ever held in the city.

William H. Crawford will open the course Nov. 9, with his splendid lecture "Savonarola, Italian Reformer." Following this will be the Wilczek Opera company in an entertainment on the evening of Nov. 21. The organization is known and applauded in all the large cities of the country, and will be one of the best numbers of the course. Hon. Henry Hall, one of the best speakers on the lecture platform, will entertain on Dec. 6 with the "Gospel of Get There." Mr. Hall is known to many people in the city as a cultured gentleman, possessed of an enormous amount of good sense. The best talent of this city and of Wellsville will greet the public December 29. The Phoenix chorus, Miss Everson, Miss Dee Andrews, Professor Shenkle, the Misses Adams, and a number of other persons will take part in the entertainment. The Schumann Male quartet are listed for Feb. 10, and Colonel Bane will end the course on March 12, with "Boys and Girls, Nice and Naughty, or the Pendulum of Life."

This ends the course proper, and all persons who know anything of the class of entertainments given in lecture courses will realize that the best available talent has been secured. It is the purpose of the committee to add one more attraction, but because there were no dates open during the winter Russell Conwell will not be heard in the regular course. In all probability he will be here in April, a fitting end for the excellent course.

Not Certain About It.

Most people in this city are probably aware that Rev. A. K. Knox's friends have been boomerang by their coupons as a candidate for the Times' trip to the Holy Land. Rev. Norris of Pittsburg, a former Liverpool boy, has also been receiving support in this city. Reverend Knox was until recently pastor of the Second United Presbyterian church, East End, but his removal to Mt. Vernon, Iowa, is thought by many to have placed him according to the rules in a position in which votes would be valueless. As it has been a matter of doubt, a resident has written to the Times to decide, and if the answer is that Reverend Knox is barred from the contest his friends will be asked to support Reverend Norris. The latter gentleman has promised in case he is elected to give the people here a lecture on the trip.

May Have a Creamery.

For some time parties in this city have contemplated starting a creamery within a mile or so from the city and then it would be convenient for the farmers; but, although efforts have been made to form a company and do business merely on a limited scale for the time being, they have not been successful. A dairyman said this morning that the subject had often been spoken of in the country and he had heard of local parties having such ideas, but so far as he knew none of the milk dealers had been approached. He thought it would be a paying investment and would be willing to sell out at any time so as to avoid the long, cold drives during the winter.

The Olivette Again.

The Olivette will soon be in the East Liverpool-Steuersville trade, Captain Kitchell having decided upon the movement and will begin operations when there is another rise in the river. The trim little boat was built by Dueber, the great watch manufacturer of Canton, who used her as a pleasure boat before he sought the interior of Ohio as a place of abode. When the river rises the Olivette will transfer pilots and captains from Pittsburg to their boats, which are tied up along the Ohio, some of them at great distances from railroad stations.

Halloween Social.

The Young Peoples' society of the Second United Presbyterian church are arranging to hold a Halloween social in the church. The committee on arrangements met at the home of H. A. Weeks in the East End Thursday night and will hold other meetings before the time for the social. The affair will be a novel one and so far as is known only one other will be held in the city, that which one of the secret orders are arranging for.

Judgment Rendered.

In Squire Rose's court this morning Frank Robb secured judgment against Thomas McGuire for $13.35, for work and labor performed.

AFTER AN EDUCATION

A Young Man Objects to Paying Money.

An Old Case Revived In Common Pleas Court—East Liverpool People Foreclose a Mortgage—That Senseless Story About the Grand Jury.

NEW LISBON, Oct. 5.—Holland Manley, of East Liverpool, filed an action today in order to foreclose mortgage on Harrison Dawson's home, in Liverpool, filing the case against him and his wife, Edna M. Dawson, and Wm. G. McCollough, of Jefferson county, who holds a claim against the property. This mortgage secures three promissory notes, amounting to $350, which were made by Catherine Curfman several years ago, but afterward assumed by these defendants. The property in question is lot No. 926 in George C. Morton's addition. Harrison Dawson being confined in the asylum at Cleveland, violently insane, the court is asked to appoint a guardian ad litem for him. Attorney A. H. Clark has charge of the case.

The case of Bertha Ramsey against John C. Norris was revived in court by a motion filed by the defendant to re-open the decree given in the case and reduce the amount to such a sum as the facts in the case warrant. This case it will be remembered was disposed of here during the May term, 1893, young Norris being found by the court to be the father of the illegitimate child of the plaintiff and being charged with its maintenance in the sum of $500. The grounds presented by him today are the pretended disclosure in the case regarding the financial standing of the defendant stating that, thus far his relatives have paid each installment, he being a minor possessed of no property and none in expectancy. The defendant is but 20 years of age and he wants this money to educate himself.

The will of the late Andrew Allabaugh, of Liverpool township, was admitted to probate today and Rachel J. Allabaugh given letters testamentary according to the will with no bond required. David Boyce, R. W. Laughlin and David Baird were appointed appraisers. The provisions of the will were explained to the widow, who elected to take under the same.

The sensational story concerning the McGregor case that was published in an East Liverpool paper last evening was heard of here, and while it caused indignation in some quarters produced hearty laughter from the people who should know something of the trial. The News Review put the matter in its right light.

Amusements In Plenty.

NEW LISBON, Oct. 6.—The county seat has all the attractions necessary for large crowds today. Coxey's circus arrived here this morning and his tent is pitched near the court he condemns so hotly when he is in other parts of the county. From present indications he will be accorded a very chilly reception.

A more important affair at present in this place is the ball game between the Lisbon club and the Pittsburg National League team and the boys are making a hard battle this afternoon. The Lisbon club is assisted by the Carey brothers, Westlake and Shaw from East Liverpool.

The Wrong Man.

The wife of a well known young man was surprised this morning when upon opening a letter addressed to her husband she saw a picture of a buxom country girl fall to the floor. Perusal of the epistle showed that the writer spoke in endearing terms, and ended with a stanza of home made poetry. She was indignant, but her husband explained when he got home that it was evidently for some other person, as he had received similar epistles before. Both men have precisely the same name.

Surprised The Ladies.

When the Daughters of Liberty were meeting in the Fisher block last evening they were surprised at seeing a number of Mechanics enter the room lead by Mayor Gilbert and Clerk Hanley. The committee were dressed in continental uniform, and bore trays of choicest eatables. The ladies appreciated the situation, and adjourning the meeting joined the Seniors in spending a delightful evening.

They Were Drunk.

A couple of young men from Steubenville created quite a commotion near the depot last night by their queer actions. Some thought them crazy until the exhibition of a plot of red eye showed that enormous jags was the only thing wrong with them. They went home on the midnight train.

THOMAS IS GONE.

Constable Lyon Cannot Find Him in the County.

A suit entered in Squire Rose's court this morning brought forth the fact that D. G. Thomas is absent from the city, and the allegations on the documents are given as the cause of his departure.

Laura Wilson and Cora Wilson began action against D. G. Thomas this morning for $10, which amount they claim is due them as partners for work done for the defendant while he was in the tailoring business. Constable Lyon failed to find Thomas and his whereabouts are unknown. Consequently an attachment was made on the tables, chairs and what other goods could be found in the shop in the Ferguson & Hill building and the case will be tried on Monday morning at 8 o'clock before Squire Rose.

Thomas is the man who, with J. G. Reese, contracted a board bill with Mrs. McLean and that lady secured judgment for the amount. Thomas kept a tailor shop for some time and will be remembered by many as taking part in entertainments, concerts, etc., being a good singer. His sudden downfall is said to be due to intemperance, and caused somewhat of a sensation among his friends, as he was generally an abstainer and a most agreeable gentleman. His departure was not unexpected and more than one creditor has mourned it.

A Source of Annoyance.

Street railway men complain that small boys make a practice of running across the track in front of cars, evidently proving how close they can get without being hit. Some youngsters have become so expert that they dodge several times before a car and succeed in getting away without injury. A motorman was heard using language that would not look well in print last night when a small boy who was engaged in the practice escaped by a hair's breadth. A few spanking boards might be used with good effect.

He Has the Proofs.

Hon. A. H. McCoy, of St. Clair, is one of the hardworking Republicans of Ohio, and loves a rattling political battle almost as well as he loves the bachelor life for which he is noted among his friends. He was in the city last evening, and while here he secured a number of pieces of American ware taken from the warehouses of different potteries. These he proposes to use as proofs and arguments in the speeches he will make during the campaign, a novel method of showing the result of protection.

R. W. Taylor at Negley.

Mr. Taylor spoke last night to a crowded house at Negley, but would have had a larger audience had not the bad weather conspired with the Populists to that section to give him a cool reception. He spoke entertainingly for almost an hour, his patriotic utterances being frequently applauded. Mr. Taylor has been most successful during the week, and at every place where he spoke the people crowded to hear what the next congressman from this district has to say.

May Damage the Walls.

There is some fear about the central fire station that the excavations being made in the building adjoining it on the north, which was formerly occupied by Birch Brothers as a blacksmith shop, will be dangerous to the wall on that side of building if it goes very much deeper than it is at the present time. There have been no objections yet, but it is probable that their fears are well founded and that the new cellar may yet be the cause of trouble.

No Settlement.

Saturday always sees a number of freudale people in town, and today was no exception. They are all anxiously waiting for the mill to start, but from the information they possess it seems that no attempt is being made to settle the differences regarding wages. As there are in the neighborhood of 3,000 skilled workers employed in the different tin plate mills of the country the question is becoming one of interest in several communities.

Want Another Light.

Some of the citizens in the vicinity of Third and Market streets are talking for a new electric light on the corner. They are dissatisfied with the gas light which does the service and may ask council to give them a more modern lamp.

The Round Table.

The professors who are attending the meeting of the Round Table at Youngstown are having a good time. Superintendent Sanor is among the number.

A GREAT BIG PROJECT

Believed to be Agitating Local Capitalists.

THOSE WHO KNOW WILL NOT TALK

A Representative of the General Electric Company Who Was Here on Similar Business Returns and is at Work—No One Will Talk of It.

Some new enterprise is at present being projected for this city, and the people who know of it have nothing to say.

There is at present in the city a gentleman who bears the name of E. H. Bostwick, and in business he is the representative of the General Electric company. He was here less than a year ago, and at that time was engaged with some capitalists who had money to invest. Then he would not discuss the nature of his business, but the impression went abroad that the project was a big one, and those interested had no desire to have it become known. Mr. Bostwick is as close mouthed as ever, but there are others in town who say that he is here to look after a scheme of some magnitude, in fact it is thought to be the largest thing of its kind in town. Mr. Bostwick refuses to say a word, and it is likely that nothing beyond rumors will be obtained before the whole thing is laid before the public.

Cheap Electric Light.

Since the subject of cheap electric light was first agitated here there have been those who have continued the investigation, but it is doubtful if they will find any place where light is as cheap as it has been offered to Bridgeport. A company formally incorporated council that 2,000 candle power lights could be obtained for $55 per year with incandescents in proportion. Could a local company do that for Liverpool its fortune would be assured from the first day.

A New Paper.

There are rumors here that Salineville will soon have a new paper which is to be Populist in politics and weekly in issue. A resident of that place told a News Review man yesterday that he might enter the field as a Populist. If the gentleman has any money he had best keep it on his inside pocket for a time at least. A Populist paper in Columbiana county would look like an iceberg in a southern sea.

Betting on Liverpool.

That East Liverpool boys are not afraid to back the local base ball players in their coming game against the Pittsburg team, is evident from a bet which a reporter witnessed last night. Ten dollars even was placed on the respective teams, the Liverpool man standing by the home players to that extent. The other party was from the Smoky City, and is visiting here.

Nothing In It.

A rumor was going the rounds this morning of a terrible accident along the Wellsville road, in which a team and carriage had fallen down the embankment, but investigation proved that it was nothing more than a horse being scared by a car and cutting a few exciting capers on Driven-from-home hill. A passenger with a vivid imagination did the rest.

Coxey Will Return.

The statement is made that "General" Coxey, the commonwealer candidate, will return to this city before election, and hold a few more meetings for the edification (?) of the public. It is believed that the general fears that his influence is only temporary, and he desires to make a showing here. The return date of the circus is not yet announced.

Out of Jail.

Michael Reynolds and Buck Dobbins who were arrested Thursday night for stealing whiskey bottles from Hyman Browarsky, and who were fined $9.00 each, were released from duranceville last night. Friends came to their rescue in time to prevent them from breaking into the county jail. The jail is empty again, and the mayor has no new cases today.

Hyman's Hard Luck.

The axle of a wagon owned by Hyman Browarsky broke on Washington street this morning, and the horse was compelled to stand patiently in its tracks until arrangements were made for removing it.

In Business For Himself.

Willard Junkin left this morning for Bayard, where he has purchased a grocery store and will make his home. The family formerly resided in Bayard, and they will follow him in a few days.

The American people will think before they vote this year.

SAY goods word for East Liverpool at every opportunity. They never come amiss.

Has the Democratic press of Ohio learned that there was an election in Georgia the other day?

SOME Staffordshire potteries are running full time to fill orders for the American trade. Those orders should be filled in America.

JAPAN has caught the war fever, and it will not cool until the army is soundly thrashed or some startling changes have been made in the Celestial empire.

To make his canvass a complete fiasco Coxey should have Mary Yellen Lease, Stockless Simpson and a few more political freaks do a little talking in the district.

If Edward S. Raff expects to gain votes he must soon begin to circulate through the district. Not even a Democratic banker can win a congressional election by staying at home.

OHIO Democrats are making a sly canvass this year. They will not open the battle in a manly, straightforward manner, nor will their candidates put the issues before the people. Such political tactics deserve defeat such as they never got before.

THERE is every reason to believe that after the November election Kansas will be found among the Republican states. Disgusted with Populism and knowing the wiles of Democracy, it will return to the love of its youth, the Republican party.

WHEN Professor Wilson was given that banquet in London Sir Albert Rolitt greeted him with these words:

"The new tariff may not have realized the aspirations of its promoters, but benefits have already been experienced in England. Furnaces have been repaired in Wales and in Yorkshire, and an impetus has been given to the textile fabrics."

How is that for encouragement to American industry?

DEMOCRACY'S DISCRIMINATION.

When Wilson and his crowd arranged the duties of his bill they forgot their theory long enough to remember that some southern products should be heavily protected. Rice they favored with 83 per cent, peanuts succeeded in getting 72 per cent, and they worshiped the sugar kings by making the rate 40 per cent. When they considered the products of northern states these school boy statesmen brought their theories into service. To them it was a crime to protect anything from which the north could derive benefit, and corn, wheat, oats, rye, barley, buckwheat, potatoes and hay were given duties which barely make an average of 20 per cent. There is only one conclusion to reach—when protection is proposed for the north it is unconstitutional and a law embodying its principles is the "culminating atrocity of class legislation" but when tacked to any product of the south it is "necessary" and the "conditions of trade demand some equalizing influence." From this we learn that Democratic statesmanship serves but to satisfy Democratic greed, and work out Democratic vengeance.

NO HOPE FOR THE CZAR

The Russian Ruler's Condition Beyond Recovery.

A MUZZLE ON THE RUSSIAN PRESS.

The Newspapers Forbidden to Refer to His Illness—A Report That He Has Had Another Stroke of Apoplexy—Wild Rumors in Circulation.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The correspondent at Vienna to the Telegraph says that he has learned from a trustworthy diplomatic source that the condition of the Czar of Russia is hopeless. Temporary improvement is only possible by a complete abandonment of state business. His majesty is conscious of his condition, and has been lately engaged in writing a sort of political testament.

A dispatch to the Times from St. Petersburg says: The Official Messenger announces the safe arrival of the czar at Livadia, but says nothing as to the state of his health, nor how he bore the journey from Spala. The dispatch adds that a special circular has been sent to all the newspapers strictly forbidding them to make any reference whatever to the czar's illness beyond a mere reproduction without comment of The Official Messenger's announcement. The wild rumors have been in circulation here. It appears certain that the imperial family will go to Corfu. Some members of the czar's household have already started for that place. It depends upon the weather when the czar goes.

A Berlin dispatch says: The Lokal Anzeiger publishes a dispatch from St. Petersburg reporting that the czar has had another stroke of apoplexy. Another report states that during the shooting excursions at Spala the czar with accidentally wounded a hunter who died the following day from the effects of his injuries.

FARMERS' CONGRESS ADJOURNS

The Delegates Making a Visit to the Sistersville Oil Field Today.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 6.—The fourteenth annual session of the Farmers' National congress has adjourned to meet at Atlanta, Ga., next fall, the date to be fixed by the executive committee. Prof. Sanborn of New Hampshire delivered an address on "Large and small farms." Colonel Will B. Powell of Pennsylvania, Rev. F. Butler of Texas and Major Ryals of Georgia also spoke. Colonel T. J. Appleyard of Florida read a paper on success in Florida.

A resolution favoring the election of United States senators by the people was indefinitely postponed. A resolution favoring free coinage of silver was voted down. Judge Lawrence of Ohio delivered a speech on "Government protection to the sheep husbandry," which he strongly favored. The congress wound up with an excursion to Sistersville oil field. The present officers held their offices for another year.

Very Poor Outlook For Seals.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—The reports of the naval officers commanding the vessels on the Bering sea patrol, on and all, present a very discouraging outlook for the future of our seal fisheries. Generally these reports show that the regulations imposed in accordance with the findings of the Paris arbitration are of little avail in protecting the seals during what is known as the open season.

Arrested For His Uncle's Murder.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 6.—William D. Trembley is looked up by a police head-quarters on suspicion of being connected with the murder of Charles H. Chauvin, his uncle. Trembley is the missing heir to the Chauvin estate for whom the police have been searching in New York, and who sold his interest in the Chauvin estate to John H. Seitz.

A Hotel Clerk's Lucky Marriage.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Oct. 6.—Ernest Shendal, a hotel clerk, and Miss Eldora P. Craig, daughter of Auditor Craig of the Union Pacific railway, have been married here. The parents opposed the match, but the young couple took a drive into the country and returned man and wife.

A Hurricane Deals Death and Destruction.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—The steamer Geelie has brought the news of a severe hurricane which, according to the Kobe Chronicle, caused widespread destruction. Villages were swept away and people killed. Many vessels are supposed to have been lost.

From Young Man's Crime.

WACO, Tex., Oct. 6.—Gus Jackson, a member of the oldest families in this city, has shot and fatally wounded a woman named Geraldine Livingston. Jealousy was the cause.

SIX FIREMEN PERISHED.

St. Louis's Fire Chief Charged For Their Death—Fire Loss $50,000.

DETROIT, Oct. 6.—Six men are dead, 10 are more or less injured and $50,000 worth of property was destroyed by the burning of Keenan & John's 5-story furniture establishment on Woodward avenue.

The dead, all of whose bodies have been recovered from the ruins, are: Michael H. Donaghy, lieutenant of chemical engine company; J. R. Dely, fireman; John W. Pagel, fireman; Julius Cummings, fireman; Martin Ball, fireman; Frederick Bussey, electrical workhouse fireman.

The injured are: Frank E. Stocks, fireman, head and face frightfully cut; Michael C. Gray, fireman, scalp wounds, back and arm hurt; John B. Newell, truckman, scalp cut, arm and leg bruised; Thomas C. Garry, fireman, scalp badly wounded, severe body bruises; Patrick J. Kourke, lieutenant of engine company, slightly injured; B. Cronin, fireman, slightly hurt; Leslie E. McNamara, fireman, cut, hand smashed and minor injuries; Henry Kimberly, fireman, scalp and arms wounded; Henry Herig, fireman, leg broken, face cut; Fred Drahheim, injured internally, condition critical.

The fire apparently originated at the bottom of the elevator shaft and went upward, with tremendous swiftness. About 65 persons were at work in the manufacturing portion of the building in the upper stories, but all escaped.

Fire Chief Elliott allowed his men to approach both front and rear with the hose, when the rear and front walls fell and caught six victims. He is being roughly scored and an investigation may follow. The walls had been declared thin by the city building inspectors, and they had refused to allow the partition wall to be used by the owners of a new building being erected.

Plot to Murder a Temperance Man.

FORT SCOTT, Kan., Oct. 6.—W. B. Webster, a W. C. T. U. lawyer, who has been making war on the saloons, has related to the police a plot to murder him. He learned that two local characters were employed to attempt the deed at his home. Mr. Webster sent his family away and called in several neighbors and all arrayed for defense. At midnight the two suspected men attempted to draw Mr. Webster to the yard, and discovering the presence of an armed force, they fled. Mr. Webster is corroborated by prominent citizens. Mr. Webster has sworn out warrants for the arrest of seven saloonkeepers.

Charged With Stealing County Money.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Oct. 6.—The citizens and taxpayers of this city, which has been investigating Woodbury county financial affairs, has sworn out warrants for the arrest of Supervisors Strange and Huntington. Strange was arrested and placed under $3,000 bail. The supervisors are charged with stealing the county's money. Other arrests will probably be made.

Had Plotted to Destroy Chicago.

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—The police have arrested a woman who was found at the Union depot with a bundle of anarchist literature. In her possession were found several circulars signed "Lizzie Loftus, Queen of the Anarchists," and ordering the destruction of Chicago, on or about Oct. 6.

Satish a He Killed Burglar.

DAYTON, O., Oct. 6.—Chief Farrell, who has personally conducted the search for the murderers of Adolphus Borgan and John Barrett, is satisfied in his own mind that William Fisher, the colored desperado, now under arrest, killed Borgan. The fact that Fisher struck Borgan a terrific blow Saturday evening has been established beyond a reasonable doubt, and Fisher will have difficulty in disproving the evidence which is being accumulated against him. Nothing thus far has been found which connects Fisher with the death of Barrett. In fact, the chief is inclined to the belief that Barrett was murdered by other parties, but no clue has yet been unearthed which seems likely to disclose the party. The police, however, are by no means discouraged, and will not desist until both foul crimes have been avenged.

Lewis of the common pleas court. Recently Miss Lewis took Tolley to task for having made a misleading representation regarding his business and the engagement was in jeopardy. Yesterday Tolley arrived from a New York trip and requested an interview with Miss Lewis at his mother's home. She granted it, going to the house from Buchtel college, where she is a teacher in the art department. They talked the matter over, without any relenting on the part of Miss Lewis. Mrs. Tolley left them to attend a funeral.

Tolley then went to another room and returning with a bottle of chloroform and a handkerchief, succeeded in placing the latter, saturated with the drug, over the young lady's face. She became partly unconscious, and he carried her to an upper room. Miss Lewis was aroused by the position she found herself in, and after a brief, wild struggle, escaped from him and ran down into the street. There she met a mail carrier and asked for his protection. He entered the house and meeting Tolley in a lower room, demanded to know what he meant by his actions. Tolley's only response was to place muzzle of a revolver over his own head and fire. He died at once.
